

Eli Teller

Eli Teller is a 20 year old singer/songwriter from Anna, Illinois who is gaining attention in Nashville's music scene. Writing songs and playing guitar from an early age, Eli is now seeing doors begin to open.

Besides appearing on numerous radio shows singing his original songs, Eli has performed concerts at fairs and festivals across the Midwest, and has opened for several major artists. He has performed at the world famous "Tootsies" in Nashville, sang at a VIP party for CMA Fest, won the "Upcoming Male Vocalist" award in March 2008 in New Country Star Magazine, and also had the music video for his song "Doctor" featured on GAC. Eli has also performed at various charity events and benefits, including singing at St. Judes Children's Hospital.

Eli is currently working on his first recording project in Nashville with producer Steve Hornbeak. Steve has been working in Nashville for the last 20 years with artists like Lee Greenwood, Faith Hill, and is currently touring with Grammy Award winning artist Richard Marx and country superstar John Michael Montgomery.

Eli and Steve are currently working together on writing and recording songs for his new project. We'll keep you posted on how that's going.
