

Garrett Broshuis

Garrett Broshuis has played at every level of the minor leagues, and recently completed his sixth professional season in the San Francisco Giants' organization. Over the past two seasons he has compiled 25 victories, which places him second in the entire Giants' minor league system. Broshuis has chronicled life in the minors extensively, first for The Sporting News Magazine and currently for Baseball America, where he writes the "Suitcase Chronicles" column.

Prior to his professional career, Broshuis attended the University of Missouri, where he achieved both All-American and Academic All-American honors. He spends the winters in St. Louis with his wife, and plans to eventually enter law school. He hopes to illuminate some of the problems in the minor leagues, and has begun doing so on his blog at <http://minorleaguelife.blogspot.com/>.